Notification – Research Assistant under the project ‘Building Capacity to translate inclusive land reforms to inclusive and Administration’.

Applications are invited for the Research Assistant position on a tenurable contract basis under the Building Capacity to translate inclusive land reforms to inclusive and Administration project. The project is looking for seeking a dynamic and committed Research Assistant to support the Project. The Research Assistant will play a crucial role in coordinating research activities, data collection, and analysis related to building state capacity for inclusive land administration. This is an exciting opportunity for individuals interested in governance, technology in land administration, and inclusive development, particularly in the context of India.

About TISS

The Tata Institute of Social Sciences (TISS) was established in 1936 as the Sir Dorabji Tata Graduate School of Social Work. In 1944, it was renamed as the Tata Institute of Social Sciences. The year 1964 was an important landmark in the history of the Institute, when it was declared Deemed to be a University under Section 3 of the University Grants Commission Act (UGC), 1956. TISS has been to be an institution of excellence in higher education that continually responds to changing social realities through the development and application of knowledge, towards creating a people-centred, ecologically sustainable and just society that promotes and protects dignity, equality, social justice and human rights for all.

About the Project

The Project seeks to demonstrate the potential of capacity building among land administration actors as a scalable strategy for the efficient and inclusive implementation of technology-led e-governance innovations in India's land governance sector. By enhancing the capacities of state officials, technology experts, academics, and NGO representatives involved in land administration and reform processes, the project aims to converge the state's efficiency and inclusion. The project will partner with academic institutions and state governments, focusing on increasing awareness and knowledge of various stakeholders within the land ecosystem.

Key Responsibilities:

- Assist in designing and implementing research tools such as surveys, interviews, and focus group discussions with land governance actors.
- Conduct literature reviews on land reforms, technology-led e-governance, and capacity building.
- Support the collection and analysis of qualitative and quantitative data.
- Collaborate in organizing workshops, training sessions, and meetings with state officials, academicians, and other stakeholders.
- Prepare detailed reports, briefs, and contribute to academic publications on inclusive land governance and state capacity building.
- Maintain project documentation and assist in project management tasks, ensuring timely completion of milestones.
- Engage with project partners, including academic institutions and state government officials, to coordinate research and capacity-building initiatives

Educational Qualifications:

- A Bachelor's or Master's degree in a relevant field (e.g., Public Policy, Land Administration, Governance, Development Studies, Political Science).
- Strong research skills with a demonstrated understanding of both qualitative and quantitative methods.
- Excellent organizational, written, and verbal communication skills.
- Ability to work collaboratively in a diverse team and manage multiple tasks independently.
- Familiarity with land governance, capacity building, and technology-led innovations in e-governance is an advantage.
- Proficiency in research tools and software (e.g., NVivo, SPSS, Stata, etc.) is desirable.

Preferred Experience

- Experience in research or projects related to land reforms, governance, or inclusive development.
- Knowledge or experience in e-governance initiatives, especially within the land sector in India.
- Familiarity with working alongside government officials, academic institutions, or non-governmental organizations (NGOs).
